FEATURED ARTICLES

2 Family and Future: Five Assignments for Future Leaders

U.S. Representative Ike Skelton

The ranking minority member of the House Armed Services Committee offers assignment advice to Command and General Staff College graduates.

8 Advising Iraqis: Building the Iraqi Army

Lieutenant Colonel Carl D. Grunow, U.S. Army

A straight-from-the-field assessment of the current advisory effort and a prescription for what it takes to succeed in Iraq as an adviser.

18 Countering Evolved Insurgent Networks

Colonel Thomas X. Hammes, USMC, Retired

Insurgency is a competition between human networks. We must understand that salient fact before we can develop and execute a plan to defeat the insurgents.

27 Responding to Bolivian Democracy: Avoiding the Mistakes of Early U.S. Cuban Policy

Waltraud Queiser Morales, Ph.D.

Constructive, collaborative engagement with the Morales government, not reflexive confrontation, will better advance U.S. and Bolivian policy interests.

35 Full-Spectrum Analysis: A New Way of Thinking for a New World

Adrian Wolfberg

The intelligence community must shake cold war thinking and move to "full-spectrum analysis," the intelligence analogue to full-spectrum operations.

43 USAF Relevance in the 21st Century: A First-Quarter Team in a Four-Quarter Game

Major Andrew S. Kovich, U.S. Air Force

It's time the Air Force remade itself into a service that provides robust, joint-oriented capabilities across the range of military operations.

WRITING COMPETITION WINNERS

50 1st Place (COIN Competition)—Producing Victory: Rethinking Conventional Forces in COIN Operations

Lieutenant Colonel Douglas A. Ollivant, U.S. Army, and First Lieutenant Eric D. Chewning, U.S. Army

The combined arms maneuver battalion, partnering with indigenous security forces and living among the population it secures, should be the basic tactical unit of counterinsurgency (COIN) warfare.

60 2nd Place (COIN Competition)—Unit Immersion in Mosul: Establishing Stability in Transition

Major Paul T. Stanton, U.S. Army

Tactical units living and working with the population provide the flexibility to gather and disseminate information, influence host-nation political development, and neutralize threat activity.

71 1st Place (DePuy Competition)—Hezbollah's Employment of Suicide Bombing during the 1980's: The Theological, Political, and Operational Development of a New Tactic

Captain Daniel Isaac Helmer, U.S. Army

Far from being irrational, suicide bombing was conceived to be a militarily effective, theologically justified means to achieve political goals.

LATIN AMERICA

83 A Dragon in the Andes? China, Venezuela, and U.S. Energy Security

Daniel P. Erikson

What should U.S. policymakers do about the deepening ties between China and Venezuela's anti-American leftist president Hugo Chávez?

90 Castro's Tactics of Control in Cuba

José Ramón Ponce Solozábal

A former population-control expert under Castro describes how totalitarian regimes systematically and scientifically subjugate their people.

STAND ALONE

101 The All-Volunteer Army: Can We Still Claim Success?

Major General Walter L. Stewart Jr., U.S. Army National Guard, Retired

The all-volunteer military was a fait accompli founded on specious arguments and foregone conclusions. It's not working.

108 Cultural Awareness and Irregular Warfare: French Army Experience in Africa

Colonel Henri Boré, French Army, Retired

French forces are active in Senegal, Djibouti, and elsewhere in Africa, the world's next hot spot. Here's how they train for and execute their missions.

INSIGHTS

112 Our Strategic Intelligence Problem

Lieutenant Colonel Ralph Peters, U.S. Army, Retired

The intelligence community and the policymakers who consume its products need a dose of cold, hard reality.
