

Ronald L. Bascue
1SG, US Army (Retired)

Mr. Ron Bascue serves as the Deputy Team Lead for the Leadership and Leader Development Knowledge Network team and Forum Facilitator for the Center for Army Leadership's Leader Net at the Combined Arms Center, Fort Leavenworth, KS. Mr. Bascue is responsible for the facilitation of a professional forum designed to connect leaders throughout the Army Enterprise as well as providing knowledge management advice to the Director of the Center for Army Leadership designed to develop knowledge sharing solutions to enhance the organization's business practices.

Mr. Bascue is currently researching capabilities to integrate decision games and simulations exercises into Army professional forums as a method to improve decision making performance and increase situational and cultural understanding prior to deploying to an operational area. He has been instrumental in developing partnerships with strategic Army organizations such as the Center for Army Lessons Learned, the Center for Army Leadership, the Counter Insurgency Center of Excellence and the Center for Foreign Security Forces Training. He has developed working relationships with non-DoD organizations such as the American Productivity and Quality Center and the McDonald's Corporation. He is a co-author of the Army's first KM doctrinal manual which establishes an organizational Battle Command Knowledge Management cell in select headquarters elements and introduces KM principles to the Army enterprise and he serves as the Treasurer for the local chapter of the Knowledge Management Professional Society.

He holds a Bachelor of Science degree with a linguistics focus from Excelsior College and is a Certified Knowledge Management Professional through the KM Professional Society.
