

Jerry Harrison
FORSCOM BCKS Knowledge Management Advisor
Fort McPherson, GA

Jerry Harrison is the BCKS Knowledge Management Advisor to US Army Forces Command, Fort McPherson, GA. He has held this position since December 2007.

Mr. Harrison is a retired US Army Special Forces Officer with an extensive background in operations, training, and force integration. He has served in units from Special Forces A Detachment to Headquarters, Department of Army in the capacity of a Special Forces, Airborne Infantry or Infantry officer. Prior to serving in the US Army, he was an enlisted US Marine.

Since his military retirement in 1997, Mr. Harrison has concentrated his focus in the IT Project Management field and has been Project Manager on large IT Enterprise projects such as American Express, Wells Fargo Bank, New York City, Bank of America and Baptist Health Systems. In addition to being a Project Manager, he was the Managing Partner for the Lexmark International, Inc. Project Management Office which oversaw large scale projects for both Lexmark and Dell Computers enterprise management projects.

He is a graduate of the Army Project/Program Management Course, PMI's Project Management Professional (PMP), Project Management Officer (PMO), Information Technology Information Library (ITIL), Computer Associates UniCenter Engineer Training, and other IT management courses.

Current duties are to support FORSCOM in its vision to provide the Army with a premier knowledge collaboration tool, Warfighter Forum (WfF) and assist the FORSCOM staff with the inclusion of knowledge management in all aspects of the ARFORGEN process.