THE GENERAL GEORGE C. MARSHALL AWARD

Among the many men of stature who have graduated from the United States Army Command and General Staff College, one of the greatest in heart and mind was General George C. Marshall, who finished first in his class at the Army School of the Line in 1907, and repeated his success a year later by graduating first from the newly established Staff College Course. He then served for two years as an instructor in the Engineering Department of the College. During the next 45 years, General Marshall established a lasting, worldwide reputation as a soldier, scholar, diplomat, and humanitarian.

On 26 September 1960, the Commandant, United States Army Command and General Staff College, with Mrs. George C. Marshall's consent, arranged for the establishment of an award in honor of General Marshall to be presented to the number one graduate in each Regular and Associate Class. The establishment of this award recognizes scholarship, pays homage to one of America's most honored soldiers, and serves as a lasting incentive to the officers privileged to attend the College.

INITIATIVE is the agent which translates imagination into action. It must be used intelligently lest it become irresponsibility or even insubordination, but it must be used courageously when the situation warrants. Military history provides innumerable examples of commanders, who, confronted with unforeseen circumstances, have adhered slavishly to instructions and, at best, have lost an opportunity; at worst they have brought on defeat.

General Lyman L. Lemnitzer
