

The United States of America

National Foreign Intelligence Community

Citation

MGen. Paul F. Gorman, Jr., USA

is hereby awarded the

NATIONAL INTELLIGENCE DISTINGUISHED SERVICE MEDAL

in recognition of his exceptionally meritorious service as National Intelligence Officer for General Purpose Forces from May 1979 through April 1980. During this period, General Gorman was directly responsible for effecting major improvements in the ability of the Intelligence Community to monitor and assess key aspects of foreign military developments of great importance to the national security of the United States. He distinguished himself as a dynamic and thoughtful leader who rendered invaluable assistance to the Community and earned the respect and admiration of his colleagues. General Gorman's notable contributions to the foreign intelligence mission reflect the highest credit on him and the United States Government.