Academic Year 2009

Class 09-01

United States Army
Command and General
Staff College

“Leavenworth provided the leaders who played a determining part in the liberation of Europe and Asia in 1945. The land battles of Europe and the Pacific were first won in the heart of America. MacArthur, Eisenhower, Arnold, Bradley, and a long list of our great commanders were developed on the heights overlooking the Missouri River at Fort Leavenworth.”

June 12, 2009

Office of the Commandant

To the Class of 2009-01,

Congratulations to you and your family on your graduation from the Command and General Staff College. You worked hard and should take great pride in achieving this professional milestone.

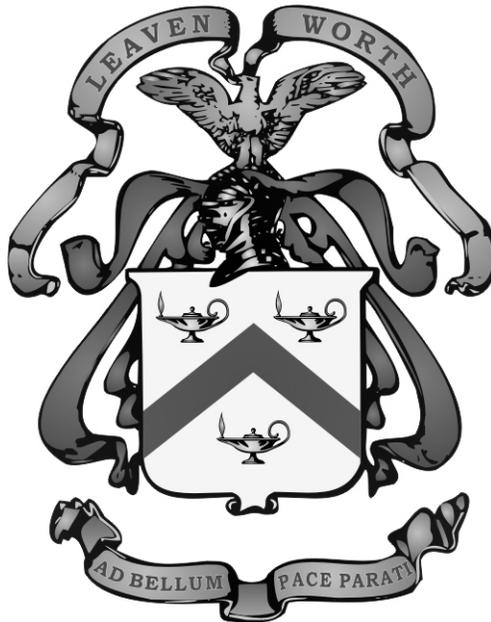

You now join the ranks of great officers in our history like Generals MacArthur, Eisenhower and Schwarzkopf. Like them, you now possess the skills to lead change within our Army and adapt to meet the challenges during this period of persistent conflict. You will find that the time you spent here has been a large factor in preparing you to deal with the complexity and uncertainty in the 21st Century.

Graduation from CGSC does not imply that your education process has ended. In fact, it has just begun. This past year, your CGSC experience has helped you develop your critical thinking skills; essential skills that all adaptive and agile leaders, balanced warriors, and creative and critical thinkers must cultivate and continually develop to operate in the joint, interagency and multi-national environment.

We wish you and your family the very best as you continue to lead the great men and women in uniform from your countries who keep our Nation safe.

Sincerely,

William B. Caldwell, IV
Lieutenant General, US Army
Commandant

The Honorable Carlos Pascual

Vice President and Director,
Foreign Policy (FP) Program at the Brookings Institution

Ambassador Pascual joined Brookings in 2006 after a 23 year career in the United States Department of State, National Security Council (NSC), and the United States Agency for International Development (USAID). The Foreign Policy Program is the largest research program at Brookings with approximately 120 staff, research centers on China, Northeast Asia, the Middle East, and Europe, and international offices in Beijing and Doha.

In 2007, Ambassador Pascual launched a major new initiative at Brookings called "Managing Global Insecurity: American Leadership, International Institutions, and the Search for Peace in the 21st Century." This project has generated a forthcoming new book, Power and Responsibility: International Cooperation in an Era of Transnational Threats, an Action Plan for International Cooperation, and international support networks in order to give the 44th American President and key international partners a platform for a new approach to global governance in 2009.

Ambassador Pascual also started in 2007 the Brookings Energy Security Initiative, which brings together Brookings's expertise on economics, foreign policy, and governance to guide the development of energy security policies for the next decade. He is the editor with Jon Elkind of a forthcoming book, titled "Energy Security: Economics, Politics, Strategies, and Implications," including a chapter on "The Geopolitics of Energy: From Security to Survival."

Under Ambassador Pascual's leadership, Brookings developed the Iraq Policy Project to assess current U.S. policy on Iraq and alternative options. He has written several opinion pieces and articles on this topic, including: "The United Nations in Iraq" in the Brookings Foreign Policy Paper series, "The Critical Battles: Political Reconciliation and Reconstruction in Iraq" with Ken Pollack in The Washington Quarterly; "A Brokered Peace," in The Washington Post; and "Regional Diplomacy Potential" with Michael O'Hanlon in The Washington Times.

Before joining Brookings, Ambassador Pascual served as Coordinator for Reconstruction and Stabilization at the U.S. Department of State, where he led and organized U.S. government planning to help stabilize and reconstruct societies in transition from conflict or civil strife. Prior to that, he was Coordinator for U.S. Assistance to Europe and Eurasia (2003) and U.S. Ambassador to Ukraine from October 2000 until August 2003. From July 1998 to January 2000, Ambassador Pascual served as Special Assistant to the President and NSC Senior Director for Russia, Ukraine and Eurasia, and from 1995 to 1998 as Director for the same region. From 1983 to 1995, Ambassador Pascual worked for USAID in Sudan, South Africa, and Mozambique and as Deputy Assistant Administrator for Europe and Eurasia.

Ambassador Pascual received his M.P.P. from the Kennedy School of Government at Harvard University in 1982 and his B.A. from Stanford University in 1980. He serves on the board of directors for the National Endowment for Democracy, Freedom House, and the Internews Network. He is also on the Advisory Group for the United Nations Peacebuilding Fund.

Lieutenant General William B. Caldwell, IV

Commanding General, U.S. Army
Combined Arms Center and
Fort Leavenworth

Commandant, U.S. Army
Command and General Staff College

Deputy Commanding General for

The General George C. Marshall Award

Of the many men of stature who graduated from the U.S. Army Command and General Staff College, one of the greatest in heart and mind is General George C. Marshall. He finished first in his class at The Army School of the Line in 1907 and repeated his success a year later by graduating first from the newly established Staff College Course. He served for two years as an instructor in the Engineering Department of the College. During the next 45 years, General Marshall established a lasting, worldwide reputation as a Soldier, statesmen, diplomat, and humanitarian.

On 26 September 1960, the Commandant, U.S. Army Command and General Staff College, established this award in honor of General Marshall to pay homage to one of America's most honored Soldiers and statesmen. The award is presented to the distinguished graduate in each regular class in recognition of scholarship and leadership. The award is a framed, non-firing, M-1911A1 Pistol.

The General Dwight D. Eisenhower Award

General Dwight D. Eisenhower graduated first in the 1926 U.S. Army Command and General Staff College class. The ensuing years proved him to be a great military leader. During World War II, Eisenhower served as the Supreme Allied Commander in the liberation of North Africa, Italy, and Western Europe. Following the war, he won great esteem from his countrymen and Allies as Army Chief of Staff, the first Supreme Commander of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, and President of the United States.

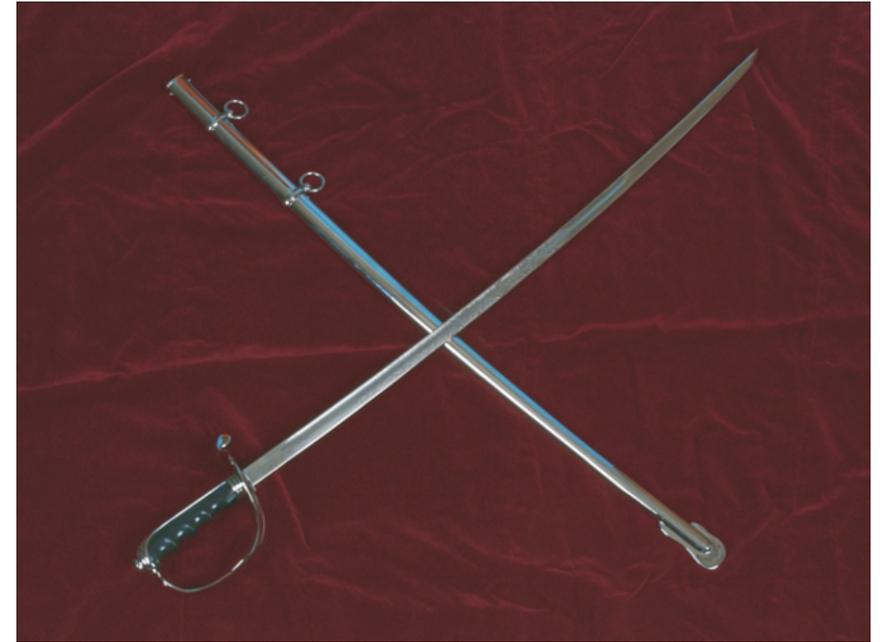

In April of 1969, the Henry Leavenworth Chapter of the Association of the United States Army established the "The International Award" to recognize the Distinguished Allied Officer Graduate of each year's class. On 11 August 1969, the Commandant of the U.S. Army Command and General Staff College arranged for future international awards to be known as the Dwight D. Eisenhower Award. The award is presented in his honor to the most outstanding international student for military scholarship. The award is a bust of Eisenhower, mounted on a walnut base.

The Outstanding Interagency Student Award

The U. S. Army Command and General Staff College prepares students to develop comprehensive solutions for the security and defense of the Nation. This requires understanding and working with Interagency, Joint, and Multi-national partners. Interagency faculty and students bring unique perspectives to the CGSC classrooms, enhancing the educational experience for all by educating their military colleagues about how their organizations help win the peace. The interagency contribution is a critical component of achieving the educational goals of Command and General Staff College.

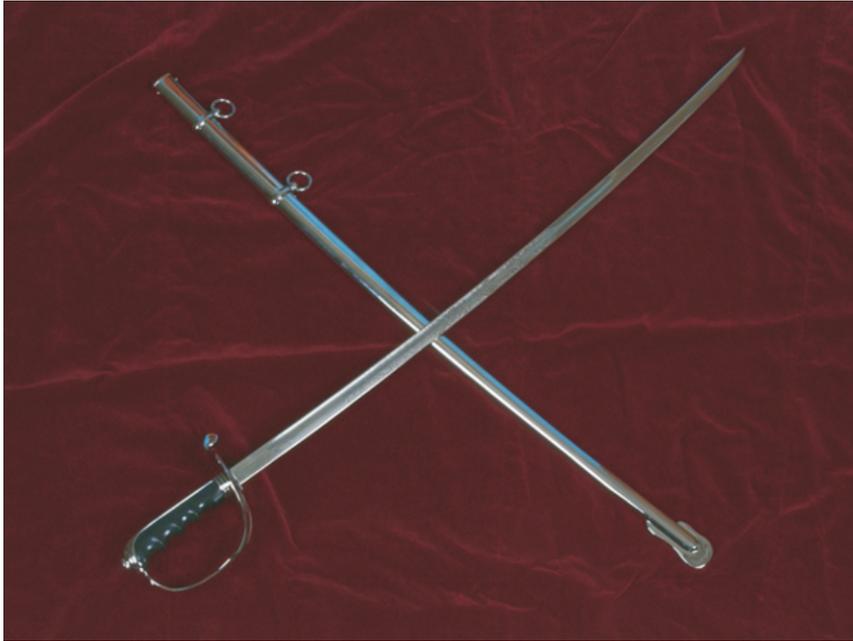

With this class, the Commandant, U.S. Army Command and General Staff College, established the outstanding Interagency Student Award to recognize the distinguished Interagency Student in each class. This award recognizes excellence in scholarship and overall contributions to Interagency education in the College. The Award is sponsored by the CGSC Foundation and is an engraved crystal plaque.

The General George S. Patton, Jr. Award

The intricacies of modern warfare reinforced the Army's need for exceptionally competent tacticians at all levels. The U.S. Army Command and General Staff College developed the Master Tactician Program in 1983 to provide an academically and professionally challenging forum for students who demonstrate a special aptitude for tactics at the division and brigade levels.

Instructors nominate students pursuing the program to take a rigorous examination focused at the division and brigade level. Students who demonstrate superior performance on the exam are awarded the title Master Tactician and progress to the second phase of testing. The student demonstrating distinguished performance on the phase two exam becomes the class Distinguished Master Tactician and receives the General George S. Patton, Jr. Award. The award is an M-1902 Army Officer Saber with the name of the recipient engraved on the scabbard.

The Major General James M. Wright Award

The college inaugurated the Master Logistician Award in 1983. The award was renamed in 2002 in honor of Major General James M. Wright, who oversaw the largest and most complex movement of U.S. Forces in Europe since World War II. All candidates must pass a written examination that ranges from corps logistics to finance operations. Candidates that demonstrate superior knowledge provide an oral corps level force projection presentation before a board of senior logisticians. The student with the highest overall score is recognized as the Distinguished Master Logistician and is awarded an M-1902 Army Officer Saber with the name of the recipient engraved on the scabbard.

The General Douglas MacArthur Military Leadership Writing Award

The Commandant of the Command and General Staff College, in cooperation with the Douglas MacArthur Foundation, established the Douglas MacArthur Military Leadership Writing Award in 1985. The award is designed to encourage and recognize scholarship and professional writing on the subject of military leadership.

All members of the resident class are eligible to compete for this award. Candidates write an essay on military leadership that is judged by a faculty committee on originality, scholarship, style, and overall value to the literature of the military profession. The awards are a certificate of recognition, a cash sum, and gift from the General Douglas MacArthur Foundation for the first, second, and third place recipients respectively.

The Birrer-Brookes Award for Outstanding Master of Military Art and Science Thesis

The author of the most outstanding Master of Military Art and Science (MMAS) thesis in each ILE graduating class receives the Birrer-Brookes Award sponsored by the CGSC Foundation. Competitors must be nominated by the Chair of their thesis committee and submit a complete copy of their MMAS thesis. A panel chosen from among the College's graduate faculty evaluates the nominated thesis based on the depth of research, substance of argument, significant, and strength of composition. The award is a chair inscribed with the CGSC seal which is provided by the foundation. It is named for the architects of the MMAS Program, Dr. Ivan Birrer and Dr. Philip Brookes, and is presented to the winner at graduation.

The Arter-Darby Military History Writing Award

This award was established in 1980 through the efforts of Mr. Harry Darby, former U.S. Senator from Kansas, and then Major General Robert Arter.

Mr. Darby served as a captain during World War I, and during World War II his Darby Steel Corporation in Kansas City, KS, produced amphibious landing craft, locomotives, and 1,000-pound bombs. As a senator, he became a friend to the CGSC.

LTG(R) Robert Arter, the current Civilian Aide to the Secretary of the Army for the state of Kansas, served as the CGSC Deputy Commandant, and is a member of the Fort Leavenworth Hall of Fame.

The purpose of this award is to recognize and encourage serious scholarship regarding the military profession. Either MMAS theses or manuscripts of similar length that address a military history topic are eligible for consideration. The Arter-Darby award is endowed by the Edith and Harry Darby Foundation, Lieutenant General (Retired) Arter, and the Fort Leavenworth Historical Society. The award is a check for $500 and a bust of an American Soldier.

The Major General Hans Schlup Award

The U.S. Army Command and General Staff College implemented an award for excellence in International Relations in honor of Major General Hans Schlup, of Switzerland, a graduate of the Class of 1978.

After graduation and throughout subsequent postings and assignments, MG Schlup's keen intellect, understanding of world affairs, and desire to further international relations clearly marked him as a model of international leadership. He died suddenly while serving as the Defense Attache' from Switzerland to the United States and Canada in 1996. Following his death, his U.S. classmates from Section 4 and the entire International Military Student cohort of 1978 joined other CGSC alumni in initiating an effort to recognize MG Schlup's contributions to international understanding and cooperation through an award to the International Military Student who best demonstrated the traits MG Schlup personified. The award is a translucent globe of the Earth, symbolizing the international unity of CGSC graduates.

The Excellence in JC4I Writing Award

The Excellence in Joint Command, Control, Communications, Computers, and Intelligence (JC4I) Writing Award is presented each year to the student who excels in research and writing on the subjects of command, control, communications, computers and intelligence. The goal of the award is to encourage students of the Command and General Staff College to study these subjects and to provide opportunities for the publication and dissemination of the results.

The Excellence in JC4I Writing Award is sponsored by the Armed Forces Communications Electronics Association. Submissions are judged on noteworthy insights, depth of research, and overall quality of writing. The winning submission is considered for publication in Signal Magazine. The award is a plaque engraved with the name of the recipient.

The Homeland Security Studies Award

The Homeland Security Studies Award is sponsored by the CGSC Foundation and recognizes excellence in Homeland Security research. Resident ILE or SAMS students compete by submitting an MMAS thesis, monographs, written works comparable to a thesis, or nontraditional works such as computer simulations through their SGA or SAMS seminar leader. The award recognizes the best thought or contribution to homeland security, homeland defense, or defense support of civil authorities topics.

The award is a chair inscribed with the CGSC seal which is provided by the foundation.

The Iron Major Award

The Commandant announced the establishment of the Iron Major Award in 1985 to recognize exceptional physical fitness. The award is presented to the male, female, and international military student who finish first in a grueling series of events designed to test endurance and strength. The Iron Major Award is a M-7 Bayonet mounted on a wood plaque.

The Father Donald W. Smythe Military History Award

The U.S. Command and General Staff College was privileged to have the distinguished scholar, Father Donald W. Smythe (S.J.), serve as the visiting John F. Morrison Professor of History in 1985-1986. The Morrison Professorship honors Major General John F. Morrison, whose contributions to Fort Leavenworth made it the center of tactical study for the U.S. Army. During Father Smythe's tenure at Fort Leavenworth, he became an important part of the CGSC community, both personally and professionally. His untimely death in 1988 came as a great loss to both the history profession and to the Army.

In 1989, a group of students from the CGSC class of 1986 sponsored a memorial award in Father Smythe's name to recognize excellence in history studies. The award, endowed by Armed Forces Insurance, was established in 1991 and is presented to the best student of military history in each CGSC class. Candidates are nominated by their history instructors and are selected on the basis of academic performance in both core and elective history courses. The award is a trophy engraved with the name of the recipient.

The Brigadier General Benjamin H. Grierson Award for Excellence in Strategic Studies

Based on his stellar performance in the Civil War, Benjamin H. Grierson was selected to organize and command the 10th Cavalry Regiment, a unit of the famed 19th century "Buffalo Soldiers." Grierson commanded the 10th Cavalry Regiment for 22 years.

In 1985, he was inducted into the Fort Leavenworth Hall of Fame. The Buffalo Soldier foundation selected him as the namesake for this award, which was approved for the class of 1995.

Students enrolled in the CGSOC strategist program who demonstrate excellence in the field of strategic studies may participate in this honors program. Award selection includes faculty recommendations, review of all grades, and performance in the strategist focused study program, a specific writing requirement, and a comprehensive oral examination. The award is a replica of the buffalo soldier statue at Fort Leavenworth engraved with the name of the recipient.

The Excellence in Joint Service Warfare Award

This award is presented to the student who contributes most significantly to the study, implementation, and spirit of joint-service warfare. Additionally, the student must demonstrate proficiency in joint core courses, Joint Advanced Warfighting Studies (JAWS), Attainment of Additional Skill Identifier(s) (ASI) in joint service warfare, participation in Joint or Special Operations areas of concentration, joint service warfare, publication (or submission for publication) of joint service warfare articles and completion of a Master of Military Art and Science degree with a focus on joint service warfare topic, or a comparable degree from another institution. This award for military scholarship is open to all members of the August and February ILE classes. The Military Officers Association of America (MOAA) endowed this annual award for each of the classes.

Master of Military Art and Science

On 5 August 1974 Congress authorized the Command and General Staff College to award the Master of Military Art and Science (MMAS). The legislation prescribed that the MMAS program require a thesis, and that CGSC must attain affiliate or member status with the North Central Association of Colleges and Schools prior to the award of any degree. CGSC was granted full accreditation as a master's degree granting institution by the North Central Association of Colleges and Schools on 31 March 1976.

The establishment of a formal degree award program, with full approval of the civilian higher education community, represents recognition for the quality of military education in the Command and General Staff College. For those receiving degrees, the award constitutes a badge of military scholarship and is deserving recognition for successful completion of a rigorous program. CGSC is proud to be the only institution to award this graduate professional degree.

The Army Song

“The Army Goes Rolling Along”

First to fight for the right,
And to build the Nation’s might,
And the Army Goes Rolling Along
Proud of all we have done,
Fighting ‘til the battle’s won,
And the Army Goes Rolling Along

Then it’s Hi, Hi, Hey!
The Army’s on its way
Count off the cadence loud and strong
(TWO!, THREE!)

For wher-e’er we go,
You will always know
That the Army Goes Rolling Along.
