1For many years in official records and on organization charts, the deputy commandant was called the assistant commandant. Return to list.

2The Infantry and Cavalry School (an early name of CGSC) was closed for four years during the Spanish-American War and the Philippine Insurrection. See Elvid Hunt, History of Fort Leavenworth, 1827-1937, 2d ed. (Fort Leavenworth, KS: Command and General staff School Press, 1937), 150, 215. Return to list.

3The Army Service Schools were closed again during World War I. War Department orders mandated graduation of all classes on 16 May 1916 and officers were ordered to report to their regiments. Fort Leavenworth itself was an active training center for new officers and units of regular soldiers during the War. The General Service Schools were reestablished in 1919. Ibid., p. 216; and U.S. Army Command and General Staff College, A Military History of the U.S. Army Command and General Staff College, 1881-1963 (Fort Leavenworth, KS: The College, 1964), 20,
